Description

In Brief

The ninety hectares of vineyards are split between the AOC's eight communes and planted on marl and limestone soils that are particularly well suited to Mourvedre. They are composed of two main climates. The grapes grown in the valley offer fresher lighter juice whereas those grown at higher altitudes on the terraced hillsides produce wines with more body and structure.

Tasting notes

Peach-colored hue with a dash of copper. An enveloping nose, blending citrus and passion fruit with beautiful aromatic intensity. Full and round palate, carried by the freshness of mandarin and enhanced by a subtle touch of Sichuan red pepper. Rich and persistent finish, highlighted by notes of pomelo pith.

Food Pairing

Perfect as an aperitif, alongside grilled white meat, sushi, seafood platters and Mediterranean salads.
